BFA Exhibition: Sculpture

Guests enter the gallery and are greeted by the bar. After drinking a few cocktails, they proceed deeper into the gallery to explore and go back to a more innocent time.

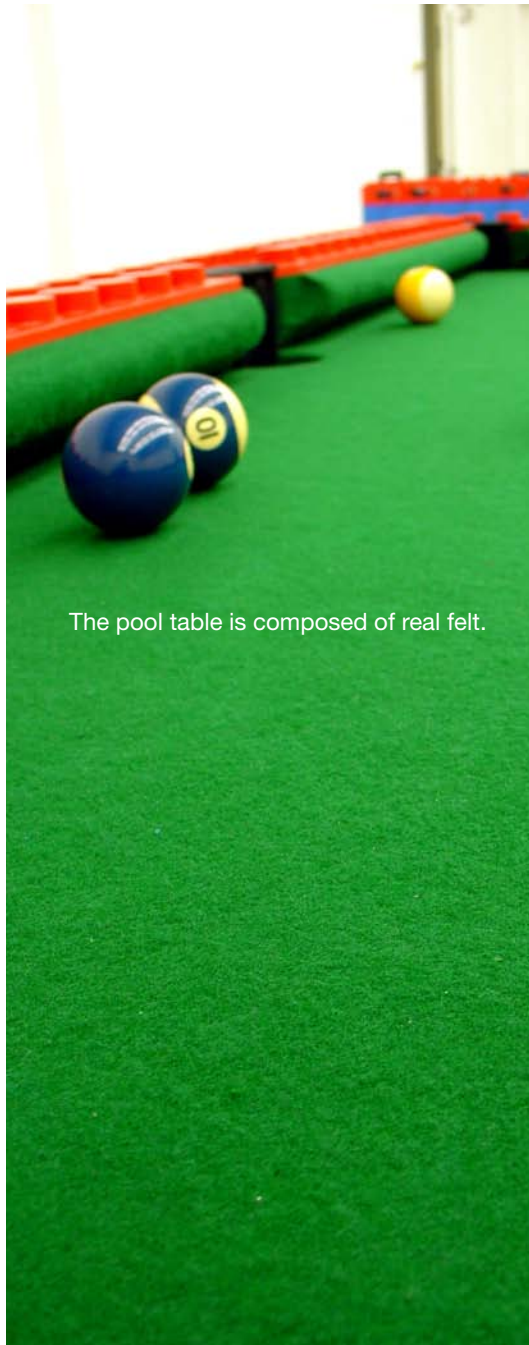

Every piece in the gallery is functional.

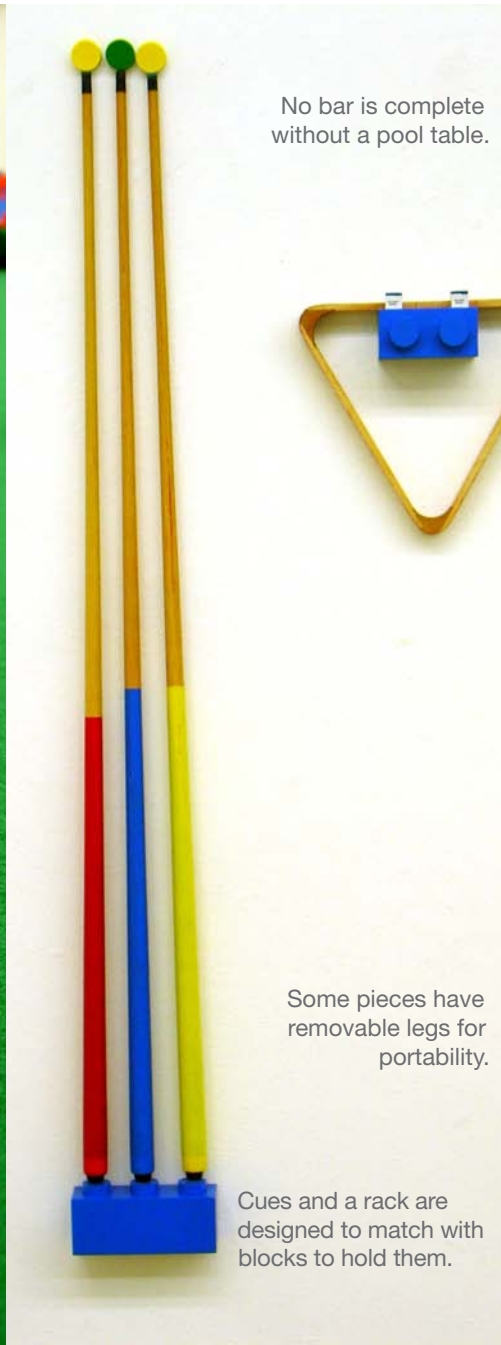

Underneath the foosball table reveals a shopvac attachment and dryer duct rig to return the ball.

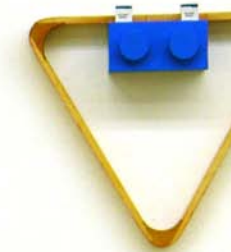

The pool table is composed of real felt.

No bar is complete without a pool table.

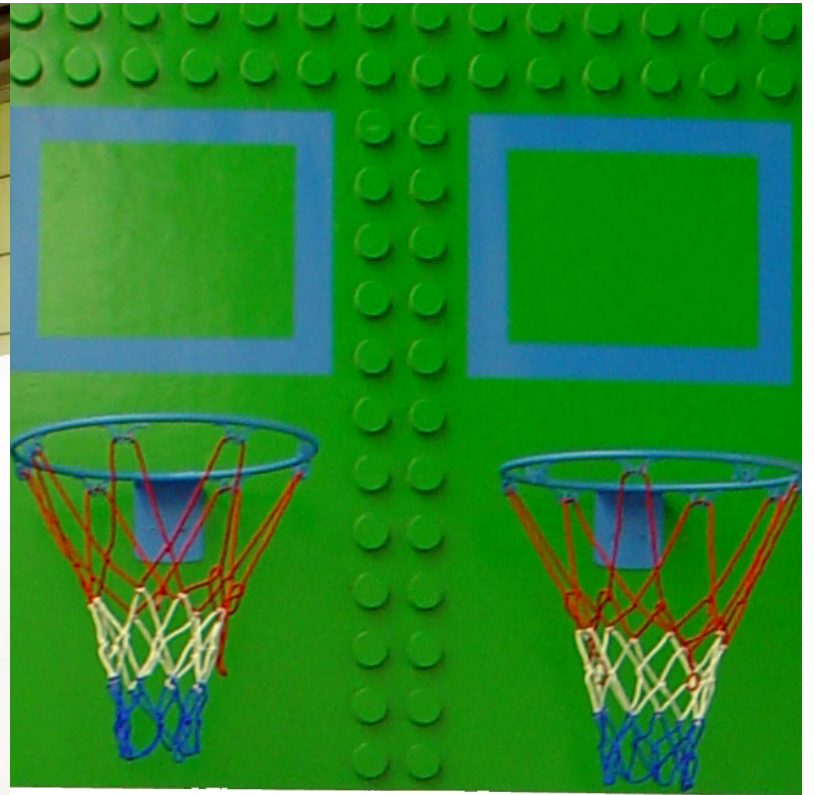

Some pieces have removable legs for portability.

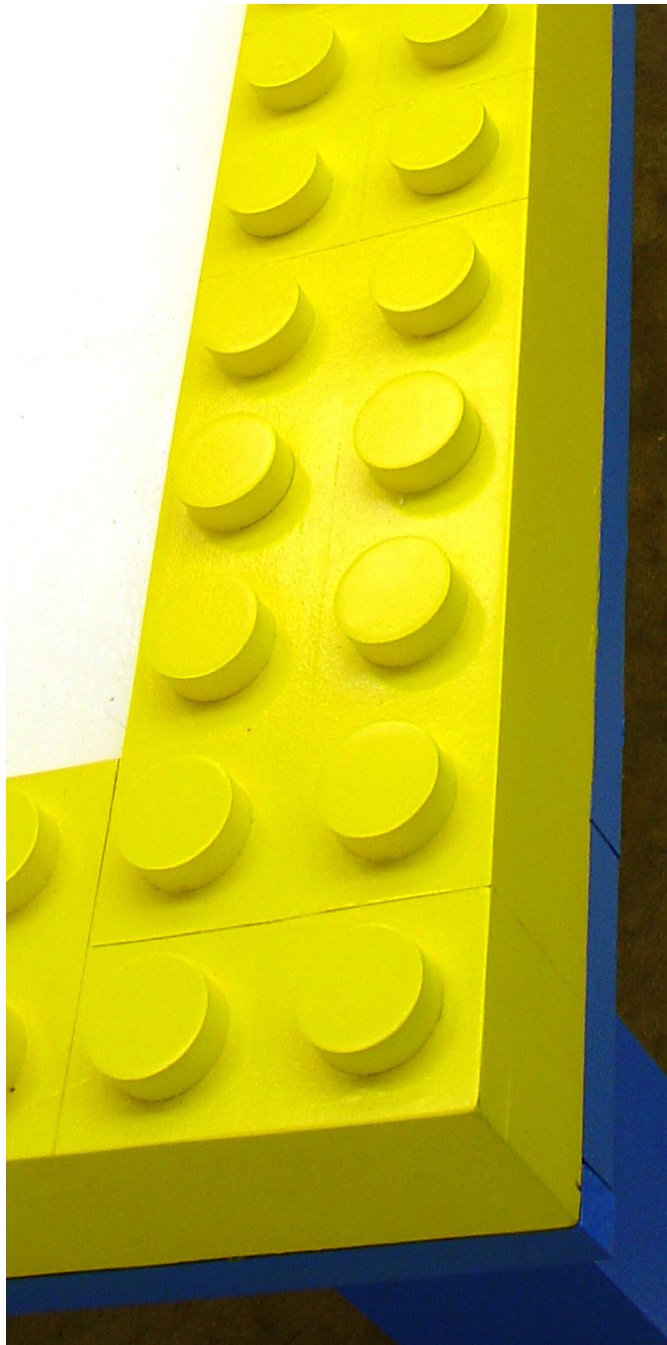

Cues and a rack are designed to match with blocks to hold them.

The Art Building in Kent never looked so fun.

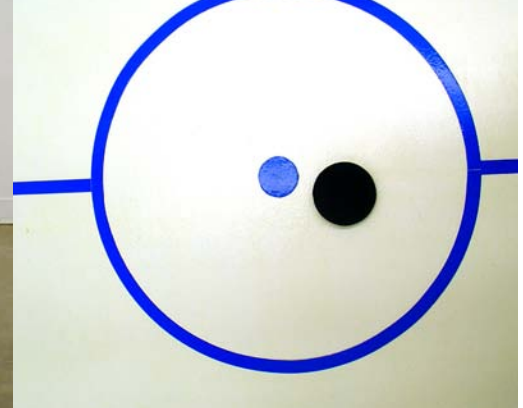

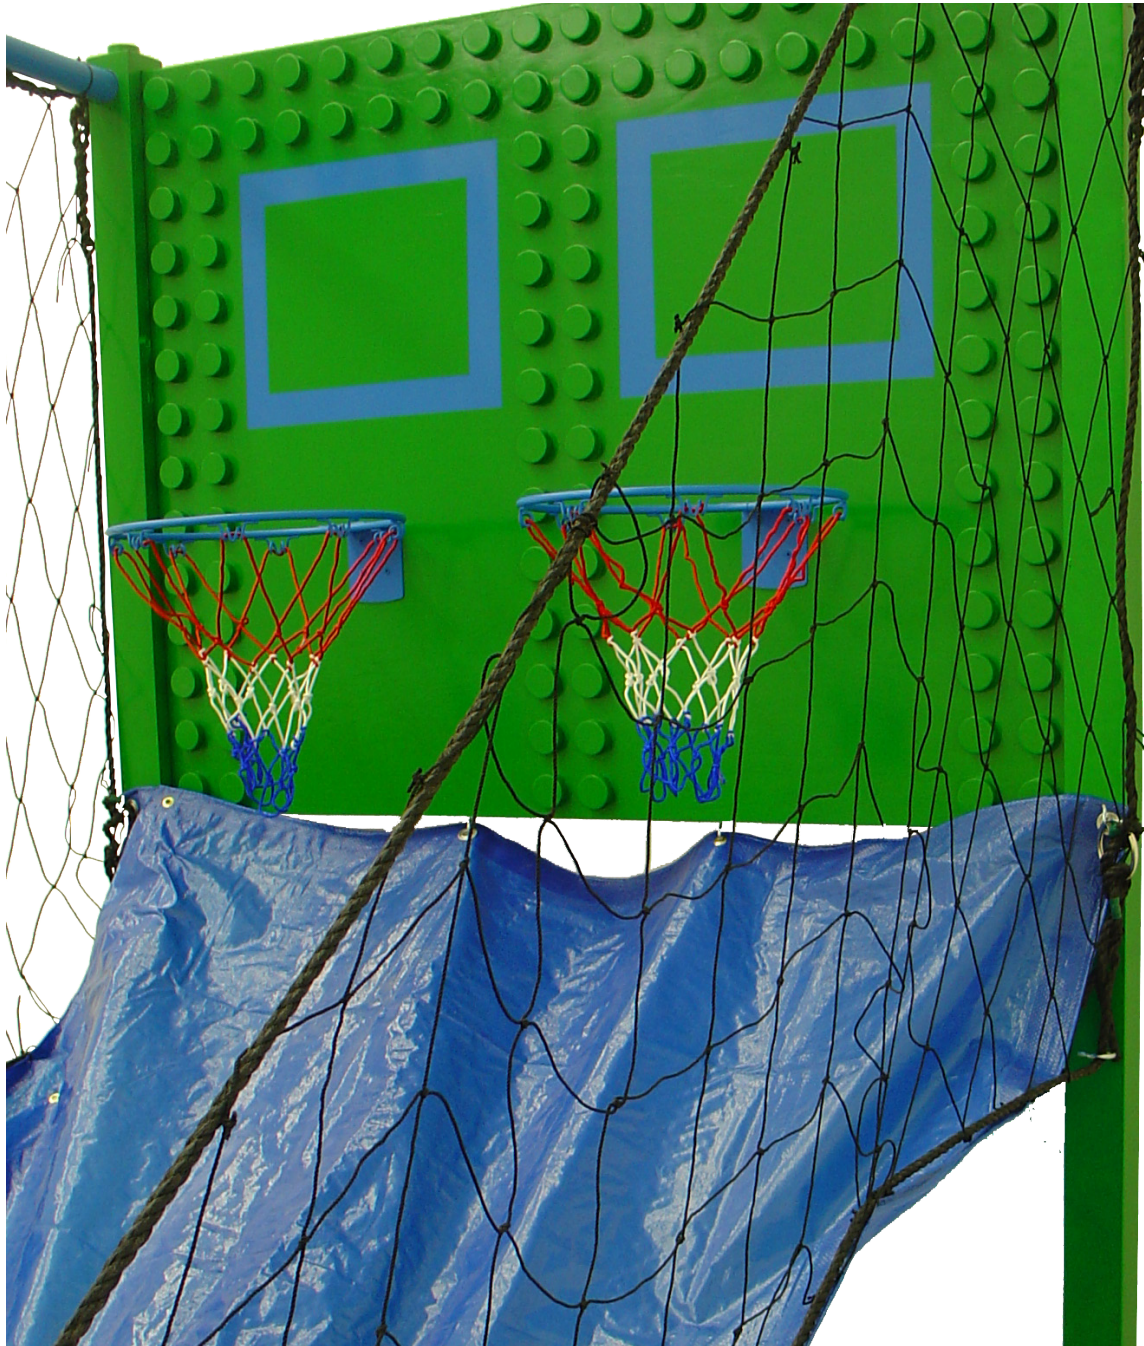

No detail is overlooked.

Though the pieces are not made of real blocks, grooves are cut to form the illusion of separate blocks.

GOAL!

A close-up photograph of a yellow LEGO Technic beam, which is a long, rectangular plastic piece with a series of circular studs on top. The beam is positioned diagonally across the frame. A black hockey puck is resting on a white surface to the left of the beam. A blue line is drawn on the white surface, passing near the puck. In the lower right, a black string is stretched across the beam, with several black beads or pins attached to it. The text "PLAY: table hockey" is overlaid in red on the left side of the image.
